First Early	Casablanca Chefs and cooks will love the versatility of the potato Casablanca. Good for all uses from boiling and chipping to mash and roasting.	●●●● ●●●●●●
	Colleen An all rounder – good in the kitchen and good in the ground. High disease and pest resistance give this white tuber a high yield and good appeal to all growers looking for a bountiful early harvest.	●●●●●●●● ●●●●●●
	Maris Bard A cream skinned and white fleshed oval tuber. Produces a medium waxy potato which holds its shape making it good for boiling and chipping, and a delight in salads. A fast growing and high yielding crop can be expected with a plant of berries and violet flowers.	●●●●● ●●●●●●
Second Early	Bambino Lovely salad potatoes with a smooth light waxy texture. Great organic grower due to high blight, scab and blackleg resistance.	●●●●●● ●●●●●●
	Charlotte Known to be larger than most salad potatoes the Charlotte is a long oval tuber which is commonly boiled by chefs although roasts well too. It grows well in rich soils and has a healthy flowering plant with good tuber resistance to blackleg.	●●●●●● ●●●●
	Maris Peer A mid sized potato with good disease resistance which can be grown easily in a shady spot in the garden or container. In the kitchen cooks like its versatility of being good boiled and eaten hot or cold or even cooked as wedges.	●●●●●● ●●●●●●
Early Main	Ambo A good looking predominantly white skinned tuber with patches of pink colour. Popular with growers for its good blight and scab resistance the plant produces a high yield of floury potatoes which can be boiled or baked.	●●●●●●●● ●●●●●●●●
	Gatsby It is a new cross between the Saxon and Valor varieties with high resistance to dry rot and powdery scab. Gatsby has long oval tubers with white skin and cream flesh. It produces a high yield of tubers and	●●●●● ●●●●●●●●
Maincrop	Cara Gardeners love Cara for its high levels of resistance to drought, blight, common scab and viruses. One of the best hardy growers, the tubers are white and round with shallow pink eyes. In the kitchen they are good for baking and chipping.	●●●●●●●● ●●●●●●●●
	Desiree Large oval tubers which bulk up early combined with high yields make this a small growers favourite. Reasonable resistance to viruses and blight too. In the kitchen cooks love them – pink skinned with firm yellow flesh they are one of the most versatile potatoes in the pantry.	●●●●●● ●●●●●●
	Lady Balfour Named after the soil association founder especially for the organic market. Lady Balfour has very high yields and very good disease resistance. Oval tubers with splashes of pink, have firm cream flesh and a mild flavour.	●●●●●●●● ●●●●●●
	Pink Gypsy Attractive for its red parti-coloured skin. Variety which produces long oval tubers with white flesh. Great for boiling and roasting. It has a high resistance to powdery and common scab.	●●●●●● ●●●●●●
	Sarpo Mira Renowned by many for its resistance to late blight and even blight recovery, this red skinned tuber is oval in shape with pale flesh. High yielding and long storage capacity makes this both a grower's and cook's favourite.	●●●●●●●● ●●●●●●●●
	Setanta Another red tuber which doesn't suffer blight easily making it ideal for organic and allotment growing whilst still appealing to large growers for high resistance to blight and blackleg. In the kitchen there are few more versatile, good for baking, boiling roasting, chipping and mash.	●●●●●●●● ●●●●●●●●
